New Council To Coordinate Club Meetings

The newly-formed Student Coordination Council will have its first meeting February 19.

From recognition of the need to increase school spirit came the idea for this council. The aim of the committee is to co-ordinate activities so that a student can be active in more than one group without conflicts in meetings.

A list of the 58 existing school organizations was presented to the ITSA board of control at its last meeting by the student sponsors of the committee, Bill Ponton, Ed Zietz, and Warren Brockmeier. The organizations were divided into categories of honoraries, publications, musical clubs, fraternities, sororities, professional societies, classes, and miscellaneous.

Post cards will be sent to presidents of all school organizations notifying them of the council's first meeting. While the council's membership will include the entire student body, the executive board will be made up of one representative from each of the eight categories.

● AS I SEE IT

Jack Wolfe, assistant feature editor, Don Goldsmith, John Dinou, Lou Fisher, Wild Bill Furlong, Al Winsberg, and Sherwin Becker for their work on the feature staff.

Joe Lucas, staff photographer, has taken most of the pictures; Eugene Stanley has taken pictures and written copy for Tech Men Talk. Joe has always been on the spot with his camera when an important story is about to break.

MY THANKS GOES TO Ken Thompson, sports editor, and Ben Sutton, assistant sports editor. Writing about the sporting events has most certainly been interesting! Other men forming an important nucleus of this staff are Jim Wangersheim, who has done a great deal of writing not only for sports but also for the feature staff, Clif Nelson, Ed Jennings, Larry Shapiro, and Dave Miller.

FINAL THANKS goes to the heart of the news staff. Without their help, we would not have been able to publish as large a paper as we have. To the rewrite men, George O'Brien, Jim Gaffney, and Andy Arentz goes my sincere thanks for your cooperation.

Bill Laube, Bob Elliot, and Otto Kroh have given valuable assistance in writing and rewriting.

The reporters have cooperated very well with the editors.

To Shirley Hagen, Beth Kelly and Libby Elliot (wife of Bob) goes the appreciation of the entire staff for their typing piles upon piles of newspaper copy.

TE CARTOONISTS, Lenny Hoffman and Ed Michelic have always come thru with a cartoon for page two.

Finally, I wish to thank James Armsey, director of Public Relations, John White, dean of students, and Gilbert Force, business manager of IIT, for their sincere cooperation and advice during the past semester.
