

BASEBALL TOURNEY OPENS TODAY WITH JUNIORS vs. SENIORS

Freshmen Are Unknown
Quantity; Sophs
Strong

GAMES AT 4:30

Beginning with today's game between the juniors and seniors, Armour's version of the World Series, the annual interclass tourney is again upon us. Although every such tourney has been a great source of amusement and subject of interest, this year's classic shows signs of proving to be the best in history.

Teams Evenly Matched

Today's game should bring two evenly matched teams together. In batteries, however, the juniors appear to have the edge. Against Winel and Bacci, substitute varsity battery of last year, the third year men will use Green and Seidenberg. Green, a transfer student, is reported to have speed and control, and Seidenberg has long ago proven his catching ability.

In the infield, the seniors will probably use Delve on first, Anderson on second, Logullo on short, and Heike on third. Other infield prospects and those who will comprise the outfield are Bartusek, Shewchuk, Harrold, Janas, and Prochaska.

Behind Green the juniors will probably use an infield made of Prehler or Litwin on first, Rodkin on second, Dunne on short and Wagner in the third base spot. Kubik, Arends and Freedman make up the tentative outfield. Roche and Skeppstrom are men who might start in either the infield or outer garden. As a reserve pitcher and probable starter in the final game (if the juniors reach it) is Roy Hallihan. No reserve or second game pitcher has appeared among the seniors.

Tomorrow's Results Doubtful

As usual, tomorrow's game between the lower classmen will bring the unknown against the doubtful. The frosh, coached by Joe Bartusek, present an absolutely unknown front.

In the box, the enforcers of the green will start either Penn or an unknown but highly touted southpaw. Carlson will probably appear behind the batter. First base will be held down by either Carpenter or Tullgren. Short stop and third will be guarded by Kruse and Ephraim respectively, but the guardian of the keystone sack has not as yet been decided. Outfield prospects are Dittman, Moculeski, and Rothenberg.

Cross-Country to Open Track Year

At least ten lettermen will be out when Coach Root sounds the call for trackmen this fall. Besides this squad of experienced men, a large group of new, as well as the balance of last year's aspirants are expected to respond. Although the indoor season is still a number of weeks off, Coach Root hopes to begin regular practice for the cross country event in a few days to get his distance men in condition for the winter season.

With an unusually strong division in the distance events, the team is contemplating a better year than usual. Captain Faust will be running the mile and two mile, and Finnegan, Ryan, and Deuter will be doing the 880 and mile as well. Simeon will high jump and shot put, with Dixon as pole vaulter. VanDerkief, a new man in school, is well known for his previous outstanding performances in the weight events, and he and Simeon should cop a number of firsts and seconds. Both Dunbar and Nuert, veterans, will run the dashes, the former also trying the hurdle.

In spite of this fine group of regulars, a number of positions are still unfilled in the middle distances and the field events. All aspirants from any class who are interested in track, may report to Coach Root at the University of Chicago fieldhouse, or contact Captain Faust or Manager Winkler here at Armour.

All Fencers Wanted! See Setterberg Now

All men interested in fencing and who would like to see the club reorganized are requested to get in touch with Mr. W. N. Setterberg, personal director, as soon as possible. Little remains of last year's team due to graduation and dropping out, thus leaving a wonderful opportunity for new men.

There are many colleges in this section of the country with whom meets could be scheduled. There are also a number of nearby clubs and organizations that are more than glad to take on opposing fencing squads. Professor John Schommer, director of Armour athletics, announced that if interest is keen enough and a sufficient number of men respond to this call, he would take the necessary measures to secure a coach. The coach of last year, former Professor Hanns Fischer, left the Institute last fall and has not been replaced.

Swimming Practice To Begin Next Week

A meeting of all swimming candidates drew a large number of new men. Forty prospective squad members, mostly freshmen, attended the meeting along with seven veterans of last year's team. In order to get all men out to practice regularly, plans were made for the men to meet in the lobby of the main building each day at two o'clock to travel to Bartlett pool in automobile. Practice sessions will begin next week so that the team will not be caught in as poor a condition as they were last season. Last year's team lost the first five meets due to poor condition and lack of practice.

An inter-class relay, to be held at the University of Chicago pool, is being planned for sometime in December.

Touchball Rules Set at Meeting

At a meeting held last Wednesday ten touch-football teams were represented and entered in the inter-departmental tournament. All additional entries must be submitted to Frank Hackman on or before Wednesday, October 7. The schedule of games will be posted later in the week so that the tournament can get under way the following Monday.

The business transacted at the above-mentioned meeting consisted chiefly of a discussion of rules of play for the tourney. Teams will be composed of six men whose names must be filed with the intramural manager. Forward passing must be done from behind a scrimmage but lateral passing will be permitted at all times. A fumbled lateral pass is a dead ball and a player cannot pick it up and run with it. Lateral passing will be permitted on the kickoff and the receiver can forward pass provided he does not take more than one step before doing so. Football or baseball shoes must not be worn by any players.

Judging by last year's tournament, we can look forward to plenty of action. The present senior chemicals were last year's champs and can put practically the same team on the field. The present junior mechanicals were runners-up and will present a serious drawback if the chemicals aspire to a second championship.

Each member of the winning team in this meet will receive a medal, and if the swimming ability of the freshmen can be judged from their turnout, they should win the events with very little trouble.

A full program of meets is being planned by manager Stern and should keep all the team busy all season.

Wrestling Bouts Close Handshake

Freshmen Prove Their Mettle in Matches

To wind up a perfect evening, a series of exhibition wrestling bouts was presented Wednesday night in the Students' Union. The first bout on the program was one in the lightweight division between Ropek and Dunne. Ropek gained an early advantage when the two wrestlers went to the floor in a scramble, but Dunne retaliated a few minutes later with his favorite leg tactics and turned tables on his opponent. The men then fought back and forth without either gaining much time advantage, and when time was up, the bout was called a draw.

Heavyweights Put On Show

The bout in the heavyweight class between Tullgren and McIntyre proved to be the most exciting of the evening. At the opening of the match, McIntyre floored Tullgren with a clip to the face. Tullgren, angered at McIntyre's outburst of rage, felled him in the same manner. From then on both fighters went at it with tooth and nail, offering referee Kreml difficulty in separating the fighters. No decision of the bout was rendered.

Mock Matches End Program

Following the exhibition bouts, a series of mock matches between Kreml, Forsberg, Schultz, and Coach Weissman took place. These bouts, however, much to the glee of the gallery, ended in the so-called "monkey pile." Climaxing the evening, Captain Kreml challenged any freshman to a bout. Promptly two freshmen, Risany and Rehwaldt, came forward, each offering a good bout and proving excellent material for the wrestling team. However, Kreml, through his additional weight and experience promptly pinned his two adversaries.

Scoop! Scoop! Girls Pull Strings, Beaux Snap As Archery Wakes Up

The truth is out!!

That almost unrecognized sport of kings, archery, is ready to burst forth again on Armour's green campus. Starting out in grand style last year, its flower quickly faded, but rumor has it that in the interim the local organization has been practicing regularly, though no one knows where, and they are now in fine shape.

H. Oscar Bauermeister, who once admitted being secretary of the erstwhile group, last night gave out some important facts and prognostications in an exclusive interview granted to a Tech News reporter. It seems that the archers have not only spent a lot of time with the cloth-yards but they have strengthened their fingers with a good deal of crocheting, knitting and holding hands; have sharpened their eyesight with a moderate bit of peepholing, and in general have been pursuing a well rounded program for the development of a super bunch of archers.

New Events Arouse Interest

New interest has been aroused in the sport due to the recently invented "York Round" and "Clout" shooting that have sprung up in merrie olde Englands. Though it is doubted that our local engineers will be able to dispatch all foreign opponents in the sport, it is hinted quite broadly, nay, even stronger, it is spoken out openly by the club members, that the originators of the two aforementioned types of archery are fellows right in our own club, and so they feel quite confident that they shall find little resistance. Meanwhile we await developments.

Archery Range Conditioned

Further information from the exclusive interview indicates that the archery range north of the automotive lab, donated by the school and leveled by the government in the guise of the WPA, will be extended and widened to allow better practice. And more, it is rumored that all archery club members will have their tuition lowered in proportion to their winning points, and will also have cancelled all afternoon labs so that they can devote their time exclusively to the sport.

May the squad give as good a showing as last year and we can hope for no more. Let's all give the lads a good backing.

Wrestlers to Start Practice This Week

Coach Weissman's boys begin their training on the mat and in the ring this week for the coming season. Although the material on hand is strong, weight positions on the wrestling team and many positions on the boxing squad need filling.

Captain Kreml is well pleased with the returning matmen. With hefty Tullgren and McIntyre, Popper and the 135 pounders, Ropek and Dunne, the team has little to worry about, except in the weight vacancies. Freshmen are needed for the squad, and those who qualify for the 118 and 125-pound class will be especially welcomed.

Only one match has been scheduled for the tusslers, but Chapin, manager of the squads, will have more meets lined up later for both wrestlers and boxers. The match scheduled is to be with Wheaton in the near future.

The boxers are handicapped by having only a few men on the squad. Among those of last season who have returned are Captain Moore, Seidenberg, Sramek and Simeon.
