

IM Basketball Tournament to Start Monday

Entries Must be in by Wednesday; Teams by Department or Class

The belated intramural basketball tournament will start next week, announced Larry Shapiro, who is managing the tournament. The meet will be run off in the boy's gym 501M.

Wednesday, March 19, 12 p.m., is the deadline for entries. Men wishing to enter a squad should list the team name and the names, department, and year of all their players. These lists are to be deposited in the intramural box in the lobby of the Student Union. The teams must consist of players all from the same year, or the same department.

Each team is required to furnish at least one man to act as a referee for the duration of the tournament. Any team which does not furnish a referee will not be allowed to enter the tournament. Referees must contact Larry Shapiro by one o'clock Friday. He can be found in "Sonny" Weissman's office from 12 to 1 p.m. each weekday.

The schedule of games will be posted on the intramural board in the Student Union lobby. The schedule of opening games will be up on Thursday. Games will begin at 5:15 p.m., and teams must be ready for play by 5:25 or the game will be forfeited. The games will consist of two fifteen minute halves. Results of games are to be dropped into the intramural box the following day.

The basketball tourney is to be run on a double elimination basis. This method of play has been chosen for several reasons said Shapiro. First of all, the late start of the meet has made the round robin system impossible. Secondly, double elimination gives a team a chance to come back and prove its caliber after an "off day", while a single elimination tourney is greatly a matter of luck and is not a fair test of a team's strength, added Shapiro.
