

WEATHER REPORT

Predictions from latest available steam tables is that the heat, now latent, will soon be on in Chicago.

Climate analysis to date indicate that low fronts will appear at downtown center, with high visibility in upper regions. Wind flurries can be expected from the north, south, east, and west at 33rd and Venturi, with velocities skirting new level.

Slight precipitation scheduled for Chem lab and heavy snowing is expected in many classes. Varying temperatures are predicted with high heat in biology and conditions of frigidity in the psychology department.

High today: Reekin's Gin. Low tomorrow: Soothie's Ice Pack.

Reekins says: * * Burp! *

The time has come for a showdown on the drunken orgies which have been perpetrated each week under the guise of the "Dean's Kaffeeklatsch." DEAN REEKINS MUST BE MADE TO UNDERSTAND THAT SUCH CARRYINGS ON CANNOT LONG GO UNCENSURED.

With the knowledge and cooperation of our formerly upright president, Hank Heeled, the dean has exploited the cream of our youth, plying them with undesirable beverages. Apparently Reekins and Heeled are unconcerned by the wrecks they are making of our best young people.

These people are lured to the North Union under pretense of making social contacts and then are exposed to the stupefying influence of cafeteria brew. Their reactions are slowed, a deadly handicap at quiz time. Poisoning their eyesight, the vile drink cripples them when the time comes for alternate-seat exams.

WILL THE TRUSTEES STAND IDLY BY AND PERMIT THIS EXPLOITATION TO GO ON UNINHIBITED? Must we wait until our young, beautiful coeds have had their lovely faces bloated with drink?

We urge students to rise against this menace. ITSA must take sober measures to halt this dissipation.

Chapel erection White's pet project

Honest Jack White, Dean of Development and Jackrolling, today announced that Technology Center is to be endowed in the amount of one billion dollars (Confederate) by "Ty Ty" Walden, famed Southern philanthropist. "Ty Ty" derived his wealth from a gold mine, "Caldwell No. 1," discovered after turning dirt for years. His daughters, Griselda and Darlin' Jill, will join the faculty. One of the first of the new buildings to be constructed will be a vast chapel, for "Ty Ty" has been long known for his piety, which frequently prompts him to exhort those about him to get down on their knees and give thanks.

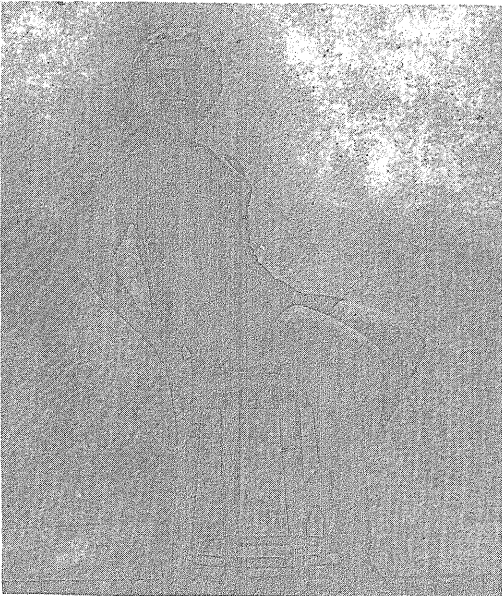

Betty Chapel, left, is not to be confused with the next structure to be unveiled in the campus development program. The rising beauty of an enormous chapel is planned for immediate erection at Technology Center, according to the Director of Development, Cracker Jack White.

Girlies banned; other acts set for doe party

Ima Catt, chairman of the Pan-Hades-ene council, this week refused to announce that the All-School Doe party has been set for Tuesday night. This event will take place at the Polish Sokol hall, 1602 North Ashland, and begins at sex o'clock.

Due to a recent ruling of the disciplinary committee, the usual female entertainers and travel movies cannot be shown. However, a choice collection of male entertainers, color slide films, and party records has been procured. "We'll have several long skirts," chairman Catt confided, "and then our male entertainers will appear in selected shorts."

An audience-participation stunt, with prizes for the winners, will be conducted as the last event on a tight program. There's to be a door prize for the best door, too.

TELEVISION STARLET Betty Chapel, whose motions were tabled by ITSA, was falsely linked to Tech building program.

Science fictioners hear power of faith

G. Philip Brimstone, well-known authority on other worlds, addressed the Science-fiction club today on "Faith vs. Atomic Power." His remarks are reproduced below.

"In these dark ages of the modern enlightened world, we need one thing upon which we can find a firm footing. There must exist for us a hinge upon which we can fasten our hopes and realizations. There must be some substance which amalgamates our hopes with our ambitions and abilities. This substance is faith. Why, if you have faith, you can move mountains or even make them come to you. And by George, it's a lot simpler and a lot less trouble when you want a mountain to merely faith it over than to fetch it over.

"Suppose you want a mountain moved. The contractors nowadays would rob you church-mouse poor to do the job. But with a little faith we can have that old mountain moved in gig-time. Think of the money you would save. However, if you don't want a mountain moved, there may be something else you want moved. Faith can do the job. It will move everything from spots on trousers to parked cars. But you have to have honest-to-Pete faith. No bargain basement or marked-down faith but real knocked out and a 4.0 faith.

"Criminy, if you haven't got faith you might as well be dead. There isn't any use in living in this Philistine culture. No sir, if you haven't got faith you might as well give up the ghost."

Pornographers snap at chance for nude deal

Armored I, campus pornography club, will hold its yearly model night this evening, behind Clarence's back. Frankly Curious, club president, urged members to bring cameras to this affair. "Last year," he complained, "only one guy brought a camera, and—we discovered later—even it wasn't lewded."
