

HAVE YOU HAD IT LATELY? In answer, only garment workers showed greater satisfaction than professional men in a recent survey reported by Chester Field.

Rape on Ogden field!

Rape will soon be raging on Ogden field, according to an announcement by Begur Pardon, Superintendent of Piddlings and Coffee Grounds. "We are sowing rape on Ogden Field," Pardon declared. "Already our tractors have harrowed the field, and the seeds are to be planted immediately."

Rape was selected in preference to lespedeza or some other similar plant, Pardon explained, because it grows profusely with a minimum of attention. "It will keep the dust down, and we may later be able to fence in the field and raise some hogs or sheep on it," Pardon observed.

IVAS seeks converts from nudists' camp

Members of the IIT chapter of the Inter-Variety Agnostics Society met Tuesday for the first time to discuss plans for an active program of debates this semester.

Franz Joseph Murphy, club president, gave a talk entitled, "Why Do Bibles Always Have Black Covers?" After the meeting, the members made a tour of a nearby nudist camp, seeking converts among those who will not have the wool pulled over their eyes.

Lectures planned for future meetings this semester include such topics as, "Is Christianity Incredible?" "Can God Believe in the Scientist?", "Is God Made in Man's Image?", and "Is the Bible Historical Fiction or a Tribal Handbook?"

The IVAS also has plans for the presentation of movies for the pleasure of all Techawks. One new film to be shown at the next meeting is entitled, "Going my Way, Nowhere." All students, regardless of lack of race, religion, or political convictions, are invited to attend," said I. B. Natas, secretary.

Fried profs add gaiety to JW-OH

Junior Week-Open House started off with a bang this year—a bang heard around the campus broadcasting system. The moron of the year, a certain poor-loser campus leader, white baron, with a red nose and features to match, was to christen the Tombstone with a bottle of flat beer but missed the mark, splattering stale beer over both the MC and the Woman of the Year. She, in turn, called him a lousy DOS (Dean of Students) and slugged him with her coronation gift, The Kinsey Report from a Woman's Viewpoint.

One of the lighter features planned is the faculty roast sponsored by the EEs (Emancipated Engineers), who will exhibit an electric chair, in which the department's instructors will fry to a golden brown. This exhibit, of course, will run only as long as the supply of instructors lasts.

By popular demand the first to mount the platform will be Dr. T. B. Dozen, best-loved by students for his timely exam scheduling. ("The test will be at one a. m. Sunday, kiddies; that way there will surely be no conflicts.") His family life was recently revealed in the best-seller, "Cheaper by the Gross."

Agriculture upset by TN cliché list

Prize clichés collected from past dance stories and club meeting announcements were released today by Technology News editors. For purposes of illustration they are combined into a single article in italics.

Everybody is welcome to the biggest event of the season. A dynamic speaker will give an interesting talk; presenting something different to the audience. This unusual event should be attended by all students, Dean Deakins says.

Commenting on the nature of the clichés, Editor Fred Michigan stated, "Unless we get some new ones, we will have to plant potatoes in March."
