

FABLES IN SLANG

The fable of the Lady and the Goat

A coy and decorous Youth came to College to be a Freshman. He was Successful. But this did not make him less Decorous. He only missed being Slow by Half a Lap.

A Frat. got after the Youth in his second term and Rushed him. So he was It. Meanwhile he had bought a Stein to put in his Room, and had Assumed an Air of Importance. A Prof. who had known his Father, took him to call on a Girl. Afterward he called Alone. Then the Frat. mixt in the Mill. The Youth was called up Against the Goat. He came, and They sent him to the Girl with his Coat on Backward, the left Leg of his Trousers Turned Up, and Instructions.

When She came to the Door of her mother's Flat the Youth was There. She Greeted him Cordially.

He sat down on the Floor, put his Thumb in his Mouth, and asked for Ma. The Girl set the Dog to