

Ye '03 Alphabet

A—is for Arnold, who on the stoop sat;
He opened his mouth and blew off his hat.
B—is for Badger, his class spirit's great.
He can draw for the INTEGRAL and also debate.
C—is for Co-eds who are soon to depart;
Each will take with them more than one heart.
D—is for Dearborn, with most quiet mood;
He's a nice pleasing fellow with mind very shrewd.
E—is for Ehretsman, in studies precise;
And in everything else his work will suffice.
F—is for Furry, who's true to the letter;
He's as good as the next, and a little bit better.
G—is for Gaither, oh, isn't she sweet!
Her manner is pleasing, her stature complete.
H—is for Hooper and Hamlin combined.
That they're fellows of spirit you'll readily find.
I—'s for Irradiate; true, it's no name,
But is simply a symbol of Armour's great fame.
J—stands for James, who is not a fool,
And when doing business is a modern Walpole.
K—is for Kerber, but do not take fright,
Though his name sounds "dogmatic" he really won't bite.
L—is for Lucius, both bashful and bright,
