

Summary of Attendance

1908-'09

Courses	Seniors	Juniors	Sophomores	Freshmen	Special	Total
E. E.....	23	25	55	67	..	170
C. E.....	19	29	44	49	..	140
M. E.....	17	25	22	40	..	103
Ch. E.....	8	8	13	16	..	45
Arch.	6	18	37	39	..	100
F. P. E.....	4	2	7	4	..	17
Special	19	19
Totals	77	105	178	215	19	594

1908-09 Academy

1ST YEAR.....	37	3RD YEAR.....	84
2ND YEAR.....	87

1908-09 Institute

Students in the College of Engineering.....	594
Students in the Scientific Academy.....	208
Students in the Evening Classes.....	601
Students in the Summer Courses.....	225
Total	1628
Deduct Names Counted Twice.....	36
Net Total	1592

HOW THEY REGISTER

First come, first served! Tell me not of mournful numbers! Come, seven! Come, eleven! Skidoo!

The student who secures No. 1 in the registration list must get up early and stand in line for some time. It is an interesting fact to note that it always is the very bright or the very dumb "studes" who get the low or high numbers; while the happy-go-lucky students generally draw the numbers along in the middle of the list.

James Megahy, a Senior Civil hailing from Barbadoes, W. I., was the first student to register; J. C. Porter, an electrical Freshie from Oklahoma, was the second; P. E. Henwood, likewise known as "Shorty," was the third. The last man to register was L. P. Rowe, a Junior Architect from "Chi"; he was No. 1128—last though not least.

L. L. Powell, alias "Dick," was No. 11. R. Wustenfeld, an Architect Freshie of Irish descent, drew No. 13. Henry Dormitzer was a lucky "bug"—he drew No. 7. "Skidoo" was received by Warren Foster, who is also a twenty-three-year colt from "Indianner."