The Faculty Club, whose membership is recruited entirely from the faculty of Armour Institute, has its convenient and pleasant quarters on the ground floor of the Mission Building. Thither the professors are wont to go for a quiet hour during the middle of the day, where they will be free from the annoyances of their duties as instructors.

During the year, much interest was aroused by the Club's checker and billiard tournaments, and last winter, some of the members organized a bowling club, which has been meeting regularly at a hall in Woodlawn. Besides these particular activities, the Club affords an opportunity to its members for recreation in the form of billiards or reading, and these branches are well patronized.
