

ALLAN L. CARVER

A. L. Carver, Baseball, Basketball, Tennis, etc., is the way our old standby, "Bugs," should sign his name to that diploma of his. Al has been pitcher on the A. I. T. baseball team for three years, and is our great "white hope" for a championship team this year. For the past four seasons, he has been the star forward of the Tech Five, and the record of leading point-getter and free throw artist in the Little Five Conference is the laurel won by him. Besides this, he has been tennis champion at the Institute as long as we can remember.

"Bugs" is a scrapper through and through. He is a clean sportsman, fast and tricky, and we all know that he does not lack grey matter.

CLARK C. HERITAGE

In the athletic records of Armour Institute, "Gus" Heritage's name will probably appear as many times as that of any other fellow. As star guard for the basketball team for the past three years, Clark has terrorized a number of forwards by his nervy playing. He is in the game every minute of the time, and is game to the very core. He has taken part in all the athletics of the class of 1914, as well as in the various other activities of the class. "Gus" is largely responsible for the formation of the Armour "Honor A" society and of the Armour Rooters Association.

A better and a harder worker for the school, and its athletics especially, has never been enrolled at Armour.
