

LOUIS B. NEWMAN

Born April 5, 1900, New York, N. Y.
Crane Technical High School.

"Design, Construction and Operation of an Automobile Tire Shock Absorption Machine."

The Ohr; A. S. M. E.; Y. M. C. A.;
Managing Editor of Cycle, 1920;
Class Basketball, 1919; Junior Play, 1920.

Lou's jovial nature is the reason for his host of friends at the Institute. He has well earned the appellation of "good student." Newman played in the interclass basketball tournament,
and occupied the important position as managing editor of the Cycle. He has been an interesting figure in College circles. Newman is known as the "other half" of Maranz.

WLADISLAW S. PAWLOWSKI

Born May 13, 1894, Chicago, Ill.
Tuley High School.

"Automatic Spark Control for Gasoline Engines."

A. S. M. E.

"Walt" is one of those fellows whose experience in the World War, and four years' Army Service has made him one of the more serious minded fellows of the class. He is a cool minded fellow and generally says
what he thinks. "Walt" like a good Ex-Service man is always on deck
when there's anything doing.
