Dick, as he is ordinarily known among his friends, is the boy who knows all about radio and nothing about chemistry. Aside from being one of the best liked fellows in school, he is always known to help out a friend any time he could. Nobody could help but like Dick, who was always there with his merry smile and his pleasing personality. His chief hobby is picking an argument with O'Rourke which he is always willing to do. His favorite saying is, "Fondebush." If you wish to know what it means, you will have to ask him, as he is the only one who knows.
