Philip D. Sang .....President
George Ruddiman .....Vice-President
Leo L. Reihmer .....Secretary

The Freshman-Sophomore A. S. M. E. was organized for the prime purpose of enabling Freshmen and Sophomores to gain practice in public speaking, both on technical and general subjects and it is successfully accomplishing this object. The meetings throughout the year have been well attended and there never was a lack of speakers. In fact, there was always an overabundance of men willing to talk, and they were glad when their opportunity came to address the society.

The organization was inoculated with even more than its usual high order of enthusiasm when they had the pleasure of hearing an address by Professor H. L. Nachman, of the Mechanical Engineering Department. Professor Nachman has taken an interest in this society and at the time of this writing the organization is planning an inspection trip under his guidance. This will be the first trip of its kind under the auspices of the organization and it promises to be a very instructive one.

The attitude of the members during the past year has been one worthy of mention, and all indications seem to prophesy that the Freshman-Sophomore A. S. M. E. will continue to grow in importance as a meeting place of Freshmen and Sophomore mechanical engineering students.
