

CLASSES

ELMER B. MASON

Born October 24, 1900, Chicago, Illinois.
Hyde Park High School.
Sigma Kappa Delta; W. S. E.

Oh yes, we all know the tall blond Terpsichorean artist of the class of 1922. Elmer is a good old scout though, and does wonderful work under the most trying conditions. It is said that he also possesses a remarkable affinity for absence blanks. His pleasing personality and smiling face have won him a host of friends. Elmer is a very popular man. His start as an architect hasn't hindered him from getting his B. S. as a real C. E.

GEORGE WILLIAM LOCKOW

Born June 21, 1899, Chicago, Illinois.
Civil Engineering.
Fenger High School.
Theta Xi; W. S. E.

"George," another sewer digging engineer, will never starve as long as he retains his sweet voice and rosy complexion. He is a jolly good fellow, and well liked by everyone. His ambitious nature, coupled with a keen insight for perplexing problems, will give him a place among the leading engineers.
