W. C. KRAFFT

W. C. Krafft, our basketball coach, was born in Iowa 24 years ago. After completing his preliminary education, Northwestern College opened its door and welcomed him. Here he became a worthy antagonist of "The Tech" for four years in basketball and baseball. He also played football. After making All-State forward in 1917, his Alma Mater handed him his A. B. degree (summa cum laude).

He won the War (not as an officer of the "Marguerite") but as Director of Physical Education in the U. S. Army and as a graduate of F. A. C. O. T. S., Camp Taylor, Ky.

After the Germans were driven to cover, Krafft resumed his peaceful pursuits and took the job as coach of athletics and Director of Physical Education at Waukegan Township High School. Here he did so well that his victories went booming up and down the Lake Shore. He then graduated from the high school coaching staff to college activities, and here he is.

CAPT. DON RUDISHAUSER

Capt. Don Rudishauser, playing his second year of basketball for Armour, proved to be the bulwark of the Tech's defense. Ruddy was just suited for the position of back guard, being a big, rangy lad of untiring endurance. Although not much on field goal shooting himself, he refused to let his opponents surpass him in this art. When the occasion arose he was never found lacking in the aggressiveness and fighting qualities necessary for his position. Many of his opponents will testify to this effect. Next year should be his best.
