

CIRCUS DAY

MAY FIFTH, NINETEEN TWENTY-TWO

Circus Day, Nineteen Twenty-two, will long be remembered as one of the most successful ever held at Tech. The committee, headed by Colby and Stantial, had done its work well and the events were run off like clockwork.

The great day was started by a parade of the band and every student who was to take part in the events, the parade forming at Thirty-fourth Street and Michigan Boulevard, and proceeding north to Thirty-third and then to Ogden Field.

The biggest attraction and perhaps the most important event was the Freshman-Sophomore Sack Rush. The intense rivalry between the two classes was manifested in some slight skirmishes prior to the big battle and reached a climax when the starting gun was fired. The fight was on. The rush of Nineteen Twenty-two proved to be one of the most exciting ever held at Armour Institute and was a fitting opening for the day's program.

After the dead and maimed had been removed from the field the remainder of the entertainment followed, a baseball game with Columbia College (NOT the Columbia School of Expression) ending the program.

The principal events of the day were:

1. Parade
2. Inter-Fraternity Pageant
3. Freshman-Sophomore Sack Rush
4. Inter-Fraternity Relay
5. Inter-Class Relay
6. Finals between Relay winners
7. Baseball Game—Armour Institute vs. Columbia College
