

THE ARMOUR TECH MUSICAL CLUB

The musical talent of Armour Institute is now being encouraged and fostered by a new organization, which replaces the old Glee and Mandolin Clubs. The new society is called the Armour "Tech" Musical Club, and is organized under as strong a constitution as could be formulated by the combined efforts of the Office of the Deans, a faculty representative, and a few embryo engineers.

The Club has been in great demand both in school affairs and for outside engagements. This is due jointly to the spirit of the Club under its new regime and to the tireless efforts of Professor Leigh, who directs it. The repeated calls for more performances which have greeted the Club after each appearance are the best tribute that it could receive.

We are very much indebted to the members of Theta Xi for the use of their house, in which the orchestra practiced in preparation for the home concert, and take this opportunity to thank them for their hospitality.
