Lost on Peak, Carries Stricken Pal to Safety

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—Braving death from exposure and ice-coated precipices while lost at night on Mount Monadnock, N. H., during a week-end trip, Karl H. Robinson, a Boston University freshman, carried Rupert Robinson, a fellow student, from the summit to safety after Rupert had been rendered unconscious by a fall. They are not related.

300-Mile Wireless Police Alarms Tried

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The sending of alarms by wireless to other police stations within a 300-mile radius is the latest development to catch criminals, it was learned today, the New York police department having instituted experimental wirelessness a week ago.
