Boxing and Wrestling

J. SMITH	Coach
BERNARD T. HOGAN	Wrestling Captain
ROBERT T. HAMLETT	Boxing Captain
ARTHUR S. LAEDERACH	Manager

The early call for candidates for wrestling brought out many of the regulars of the previous year and from this group Hogan was elected captain of the team. The squad seemed to have the ability and energy but they lacked the experience which is the greatest aid to any wrestler. Out of the four meets in which the team was entered, one was won by Armour.

Lack of time for training may account for some of these losses, the squad met only twice a week and then the time for practice was very limited. In spite of that fact the men showed excellent spirit and made use of every minute offered them.

The first meet was with Northwestern University and was held at the University in Evanston. This was merely a practice meet and no score was given. Homer Geymer, the champion of the Institute, was the only member of the team to get a decision and so the score was against the Armour team.

After a short while when the team was in better shape, Northwestern University invaded the Armour Camp and won 15-11. The score indicates that the Armour men deserve great credit for coming that close to defeating a team of the Big Ten. The work on the part of all the men was visibly better and the spirit had increased. Those men who got the points for Armour were McHenry, Swanson, Janak, and Price.

Armour tried to defeat the old rivals but lost by a score of 21-7 when they met the "Y" College at Armour. Eisenberg obtained a decision and McHenry won by default.

A return meet was a victory for the "Y" College to a score of 17-7. Young McHenry garnered the total number of points for Armour by getting a decision and a fall.

De Paul travelled to Armour to return beaten by a score of 10-7. Janak and Green won by falls. At the same time the Boxing team met in their one meet of the season and gave De Paul a sound lacing. Cailles was clearly the star of the meet, completely outclassing his man. Captain Hamlett also showed up well. The Armour team won all of their matches on decisions.
