

HUMOR

FOLLOW THE SIGNS

"My goodness," remarked the old gentleman as he stopped the young lad with the fine catch of trout. "You've had a very successful day, young man. Where did you catch all these fish?"

"Just walk down that path marked 'Private' and keep right on till you come to a notice 'Trespassers will be prosecuted.' A few yards further on there's a fine pool in the river marked, 'No fishing allowed,' and there you are sir!"

ASK AND RECEIVE

"What were you and Mr. Smith talking about in the parlor?" demanded Miss Blushes' mother.

"Oh, we were discussing our kith and kin," replied the young lady.

"Yeth, they wath," interposed her little sister, "Mr. Thmith asked her for a kith, and thye thaid 'you kin.'"

A JOKE WITHOUT A TITLE

Curious Onlooker (to man who before entering the telephone booth attaches an identification tag to his wrist): "Why do you put on that identification card?"

The Tagged One: "I want to remember, and I want the world to know, who I am after I have gotten the right number."

The Rabbi: "I should like to ask you, Mr. Levy, why you refused to donate some money to help buy coal and keep the synagogue warm?"

Levy: "You think I am a fool? Why should I give money to buy coal when I know that this synagogue is heated by steam."

News Item: 1924—Inhabitants of Manhattan Island want to trade back!

A man rang my door bell and said, "Does Isaac Rosenbaum live here?"

I said, "No, this is a fire-proof building."

She: "I wouldn't marry you, sir, if you were as rich as Croesus."

He: "Well, that's just the difference, I wouldn't marry you if you weren't."

Two fraternity brothers were sleeping together one night, when one of them got up and walked the floor. His roommate said, "Frank, how come you're walking the floor?"

Frank: "Well, I owe my tailor a hundred dollars and I promised to pay him tomorrow and I haven't the money."

Roommate: "Well for goodness sake, come to bed and let him walk the floor."

A LITTLE BIT O' MATH

One and one makes two, and then there is one to carry.

DUMBBELL POEMS THAT MEAN SOMETHING

Roses red and violets blue,
Where you see three balls,
You'll find my overcoat.

ADVICE TO THE FRESHMEN

When you get into deep water, keep your mouth shut.

She: "What color window blinds have you?"

Clerk: "Window blinds are all shades."

"Do you like codfish balls?"

"I don't know, I never attended any."

"Did you hear me sing? What do you think of my execution?"

"I'm in favor of it."

ON THE "L" TRAIN

"My dear sir, I have been observing while adhering to this strap placed here by the railway company for the convenience of passengers, that you have been monopolizing more room than is allotted you on your transportation, therefore, if it is convenient, I would kindly ask you to rearrange your anatomy so I might repose thither."

In other words, "Move over."

ZAT SO?

They say if we are good in this world, when we die, we will go to a place of everlasting bliss. If we are bad, we will go to a place of everlasting blister.

She wore a gown,
I laughed at it;

The soul of wit.

Lizza: "Mose, what does that word ASBESTUS mean there on the curtain?"

Mose: "Shush, don't show your ignorance, that's the latin for welcome."

Two workmen were wheeling dirt in wheelbarrows. The boss went up to one of them and said:

"Look here, you, your mate's wheeling four wheelbarrow loads to your one."

"Well," snarled the workman, "Don't blame me. I've told him about it half a dozen times already."

First: "I've got a stiff course this term."

Second: "What is it?"

First: "Dissecting."
