Quite true to the past history of the Class of '26, the Senior Dance was an innovation. After a good deal of thought and investigation, the Social Committee, under the able leadership of Mr. O. S. Peterson, found a new floor on which the Armour Institute Seniors might wend their feet. The top floor ballroom of the Furniture Mart was selected for November 20th as the ideal place and time for such a dignified affair as the first dance of the social season of the Armour Tech.

The music, furnished by Benson's Blue Jackets, installed another new feature by playing the "Armour Fight Song." It was a thrilling sight and sound to see and hear, as the crowded floor swayed and sung to the familiar tune.

The club rooms of the Mart were opened to the dancers and the large sofas and lounging chairs served excellently for those who wished to rest for a moment between dances. They were used.
