

HUMOR

HELEN SUMMER'S COLUMN

(You ask, she answers—maybe)

Dear Helen: I understand that Morris Gest promises a play next season that will make everyone think. Have you any idea what kind of a play it will be?

Dinah Mite.

Ans: Sort of a miracle play, I should say. H. S.

My Dear Miss Summer: There was a couple—both friends of mine—married in San Francisco last month. Would you call this a "Western Union"?

Carrie Seen.

Ans: Yes, and I suppose that he will take her to Africa for her honeymoon, but that would be carrying a joke a little too far. H. S.

Dear Miss Summer: How should one send a proposal to his lady love? How should she answer?

Oswald.

Ans: Send a stamped addressed envelope for personal answer. H. S.

Dear Miss Summer: What's the idea of making umbrellas square now?

I. Carrie Won.

Ans: Because it is not safe to leave them 'round. H. S.

Dear Miss Summer: I am said to be beautiful by all my acquaintances. The girls are crazy about me. What can I do to keep them away?

C. Palmer.

Ans: Use the Palmer Method free arm movement. But remember, no slugging. You might also try Palmer's "Calculus for Home Study." I think this will be effective. H. S.

My Dear Helen: We have a new baby, the only one we have. What would you suggest naming her?

Asbestos Papa.

Ans: If you haven't any but her, why not call her Oleomargarine?

H. S.

Dear H. S.: What company is Richard Dix in now? Isn't he sweet?
"20"

Ans: Mostly in mine. I think so too. H. S.

Miss Summer: We are having quite an argument. Tell us—what did Tennessee?

Custom Borglum.

Ans: The same as Arkansas. H. S.

Dear Helen Summer: Tell me how long girls should be loved?

Sophomore.

Ans: The same as short ones. H. S.

Dear Helen: I have been reading about the attempts to reach the North Pole. In one of these books it says something about an Eskimo crying. Do they weep often?

Polar Kid.

Ans: I imagine they do have their daily blubber. H. S.

Dear H. S.: Who is the best dressed woman in the world?

C. Weed.

Ans: The Statute of Liberty; she has New Jersey on her back every day. H. S.

Dear Helen: What is meant by the "wages of sin" that we hear so much about these days?

D. Lirieum.

Ans: Probably a check from a "Confession" magazine, big boy.

H. S.

Signing off: Helen Summer.

P. S.: Same in winter.
