Dear Diary:

Tonight's the night I've been waiting and planning for so long, Prom night! Dick has taken me to all the other school dances this year and I've come to love 'em so. But I was so afraid he wouldn't ask me to the Prom, because I know what the Prom means to these proud young Armour fellows. The girl must be just the perfect Prom Girl, and oh! what a thrill when he asked me! Dear Dick!

Oh! There's the dear boy at the door now. Dear Diary, I'm all a-flutter inside, and I'll finish this when I get home.

Dear Diary:

What was that meaningless chatter I was writing of the Prom before I left? The combination of the Congress Hotel Gold Room, Del Lampe's band, the glorious dinner and favors, and Dick in his "Tux," was just more than I can describe! Oh Dear Diary, will I ever wake up?
