

F. M. JAMES

JUNIOR WEEK, 1930

Junior Marshal, FRANK M. JAMES

Assistant Marshals

ARTHUR H. JENS

WALTER E. SCHIRMER

FRANCIS S. AUSTIN

LOUIS L. HENSEN

JUNIOR WEEK, 1930

Junior Week, the one week of the year when school activities are more important than the daily grind; the week when baseball, tennis, track, banquets, music and the Prom, reign supreme.

The honor of opening the week's festivities fell to the baseball team, which measured the Alumni for a full-length pail and stand-up coffin to the sad tune of 10 to 2 on Monday afternoon.

On Monday evening, school work again claimed our attention for a short while, the occasion being Open House Night. All the shops and laboratories were humming busily, possibly, quite possibly, a bit more busily than usual.

Wednesday afternoon saw the usual victorious tennis team go down before the strong racket-wielders from Michigan State Normal College in a thrilling match.

The musical climax of the year occurred the same evening with the presentation of the Annual Spring Concert in Mission Hall. The program was full and varied, including numbers by the Band, Orchestra, Glee Club, and also the eagerly-awaited and bitterly contested Inter-Fraternity Sing, won by the Triangle Fraternity.

For the Juniors, the highest point in the week's activities came on Friday evening, when they gave their Promenade in the Balloon Room of the Congress Hotel.

