

Michigan State Normal was the next victim at a score of 5-3. Simpson had his strikeout ball working perfectly for this game and twenty-one of the teachers vainly waved bats at his hooks.

The alumni were gently let down ten to two. John Schommer tried to pitch a bit but his hurling activities reminded one of a creaky windlass badly in need of lubrication. It's strange how quickly the alumni deteriorate after leaving the sacred portals of dear old Armour. It doesn't seem possible that studies kept them in condition.

The seventeenth saw another victory for Armour. Michigan State Normal was again defeated 5-1. The Armour batsmen gathered twelve hits in this game. King, the Michigan State Pitcher gathered the three hits made off Simpson.
