

INTERFRATERNITY ATHLETICS

MacLennan, Giske, Meade, Erland, Leichtenberg, Carlson.

Armour's collegiate atmosphere and love for fair play is accentuated by interfraternity athletics. Throughout all of its branches of competition there prevails a spirit of the finest sportsmanship coupled with every participant's best effort to win. It is this keen spirit of rivalry that has lent color and enthusiasm to intramural activities.

The final basketball game brought the Phi Pi Phi's and the Sigma Kappa Delta's together. The game opened with both teams playing cautiously, but in the third quarter the former sent a fusillade of shots through the net to gain a substantial lead, too great to be overcome by the fourth-quarter rally which the Sig Kap's gamely put up. Carlson, a Phi Pi forward, was high point man.

One of the "highlights" of Junior Week was the interfraternity track meet. Competition was close in each event and every man was compelled to do his utmost to "get in the money"! The participants were spurred on by the exhortations and cheers of enthusiastic fraternity brothers and friends who lined the sides of the field. Beta Psi won the day's honors with a total of 54 points. Triangle placed second and Sigma Kappa Delta third with 25½ and 18½ points respectively. Miran of Beta Psi was high-point man with 18 points. A Theta Xi team composed of Rowley, Olsen, Carlson, and Sorensen, won the Interfraternity Relay.
