

Only the refined and delicate pleasures that spring from research and education can build up barriers between different ranks.