The Faculty Club is a place of retreat for the Officers and Faculty members of the Institute, when not actively engaged in the performance of their respective duties. It is the one general means of social contact available throughout the school year.

The club rooms are conveniently and centrally located on the ground floor of the Mission building, opposite the Student Union and Faculty Grill. The day by day activities of the Club center about five or six tables of Contract Bridge, a fully equipped billiard room and a reading room well supplied with current magazines. The contract bridge tables, whose players are under the general tutelage of Professor Perry, are scenes of intense activity and interest, particularly during the noon "hour". Billiards seem to have languished somewhat since the advent of bridge about two years ago, though there still remain a few loyal devotees. In the reading room there can generally be found a few readers deep in the study of Judge, Ballyhoo, and, it must be admitted, some more substantial publications. Besides those who participate in these more or less strenuous physical and mental preoccupations are to be found those who value the Club for its opportunity
