HISTORY

Triangle was founded at the University of Illinois in 1907 by a group of Civil Engineers for the purpose of establishing a closer bond of friendship between the members of the group. Later several other departments were taken in, and by a referendum vote in 1921, eligibility was extended to all undergraduates whose course of study leads to a degree in Engineering.

The Armour chapter of Triangle originated in a local fraternity known as the Scroll and Triangle, which was the outgrowth of an idea possessed by six Armour students who likewise felt the need of an organized group having similar ideas of fellowship. Scroll and Triangle was recognized as a local fraternity in 1921, and its petition to Triangle was approved at the fourteenth annual convention. On May 26, 1923, it was installed as the Armour chapter of Triangle Fraternity.
