Honor "A" was founded 22 years ago for the purpose of being the governing body for athletics at Armour. However, in 1922, the Armour Tech Athletic Association was formed, and this organization took over the work. Now Honor "A" is the honorary lettermen's society. It has been devoted to the promotion of athletic endeavor at Armour.

Honor "A" performs the activities which have been allotted to it in a ship-shape manner. It co-operates with the A.T.S.A. in planning an award assembly in the spring at which the awards for basketball, swimming, and wrestling are given out, and at which the pledges of Honor "A" receive their keys.

The outstanding result of this year's work in Honor "A" has been the establishment of a new set of letters. There has been much agitation throughout the school that the letters now being awarded are inadequate for the class of school which Armour is. It has been suggested that the letters should be of a solid color nature, and that they should not be bordered by any other color. This matter was investigated thoroughly. A committee consisting of Concolino, Heike, and Knaus were appointed to look into the situation. Their recommendation was brought before Honor "A" and was accepted. So, the recommendation of Honor "A" to the A.T.S.A. has been that the system of letters be changed. Instead of one letter, there shall be three letters. They shall be of a solid color with no border. The letters shall be solid red and solid gold. A captain's letter shall be solid black. This system agrees very well with the systems in the larger colleges and universities.

It is through such things as these that the organization has felt that it is on the road to increased service and greater usefulness to our alma mater.
