The first game scheduled for the season was not played because of inclement weather. In the real season opener, the Techmen took a beating from Northwestern to the tune of 10-0. The routing can be accounted for if one takes into consideration the seven errors and three hits made by Armour players. With this kind of backing it is no wonder that the three Armour pitchers, who yielded six hits, could not produce a decent score. The third inning, with one hit and four Tech errors, which produced five runs, was too much for the Armour team.

In the next game with Hillsdale, which was not originally scheduled, the Techawks fared even worse. They were defeated by the lopsided score of 13-0. Eight doubles, two triples, and a
