

Biegler

Baumel

Bartusek

Shewchuck

homer, as part of fifteen hits, practically tell the story. The visitors got the double habit quickly, as the first four men to face Delve bunted his offerings over the short right field fence. Armour collected three hits and sixteen strike outs from the servings of left-handed John Smith of Hillsdale. The safe bingles were a double by Seidenberg and two singles by Adamec and Phillips.

The Techmen then met Chicago for their third game and again lost by a topheavy score. This time it was 12-1. Chicago garnered twelve hits from the pitching of Kossuth and Baumel, but their twelve runs were gotten without much trouble. The Armour men made, in all, eight bobbles to the Maroon's two, and only three of the twelve runs were earned. Little cheer for Tech fans could be found in the totals: 7 hits, 1 run, 2 wild pitches, 8 errors, and 2 strike outs. Captain Omiecinski was himself with two for four and ten chances without an error in the field. Biegler, who tallied Armour's lone run, walked, stole second on a strike out, and sprinted home on Jimmy Dunne's liner over short. This performance came in the eighth but it turned out to be a forlorn hope, as Chicago scored four more runs.

The fifth game, which was at North Central, was another overwhelming defeat for the Techmen. The score, at the end of the ninth inning, stood 16-3 with Armour on the small end. The one bright spot of the game was a home run by Al Lauchiskis.

A change came at last. The sixth game of the season was played against Wheaton on our grounds, and the Techawks won by a rather large score, this being 15-2. Kossuth, pitching the

A Close Play at Third

Behind the Bat and the Screen

