TENNIS

SEASON OF 1935

William W. Colvert.....	Coach
Richard D. Armsbury.....	Captain
Edward N. Searl.....	Manager

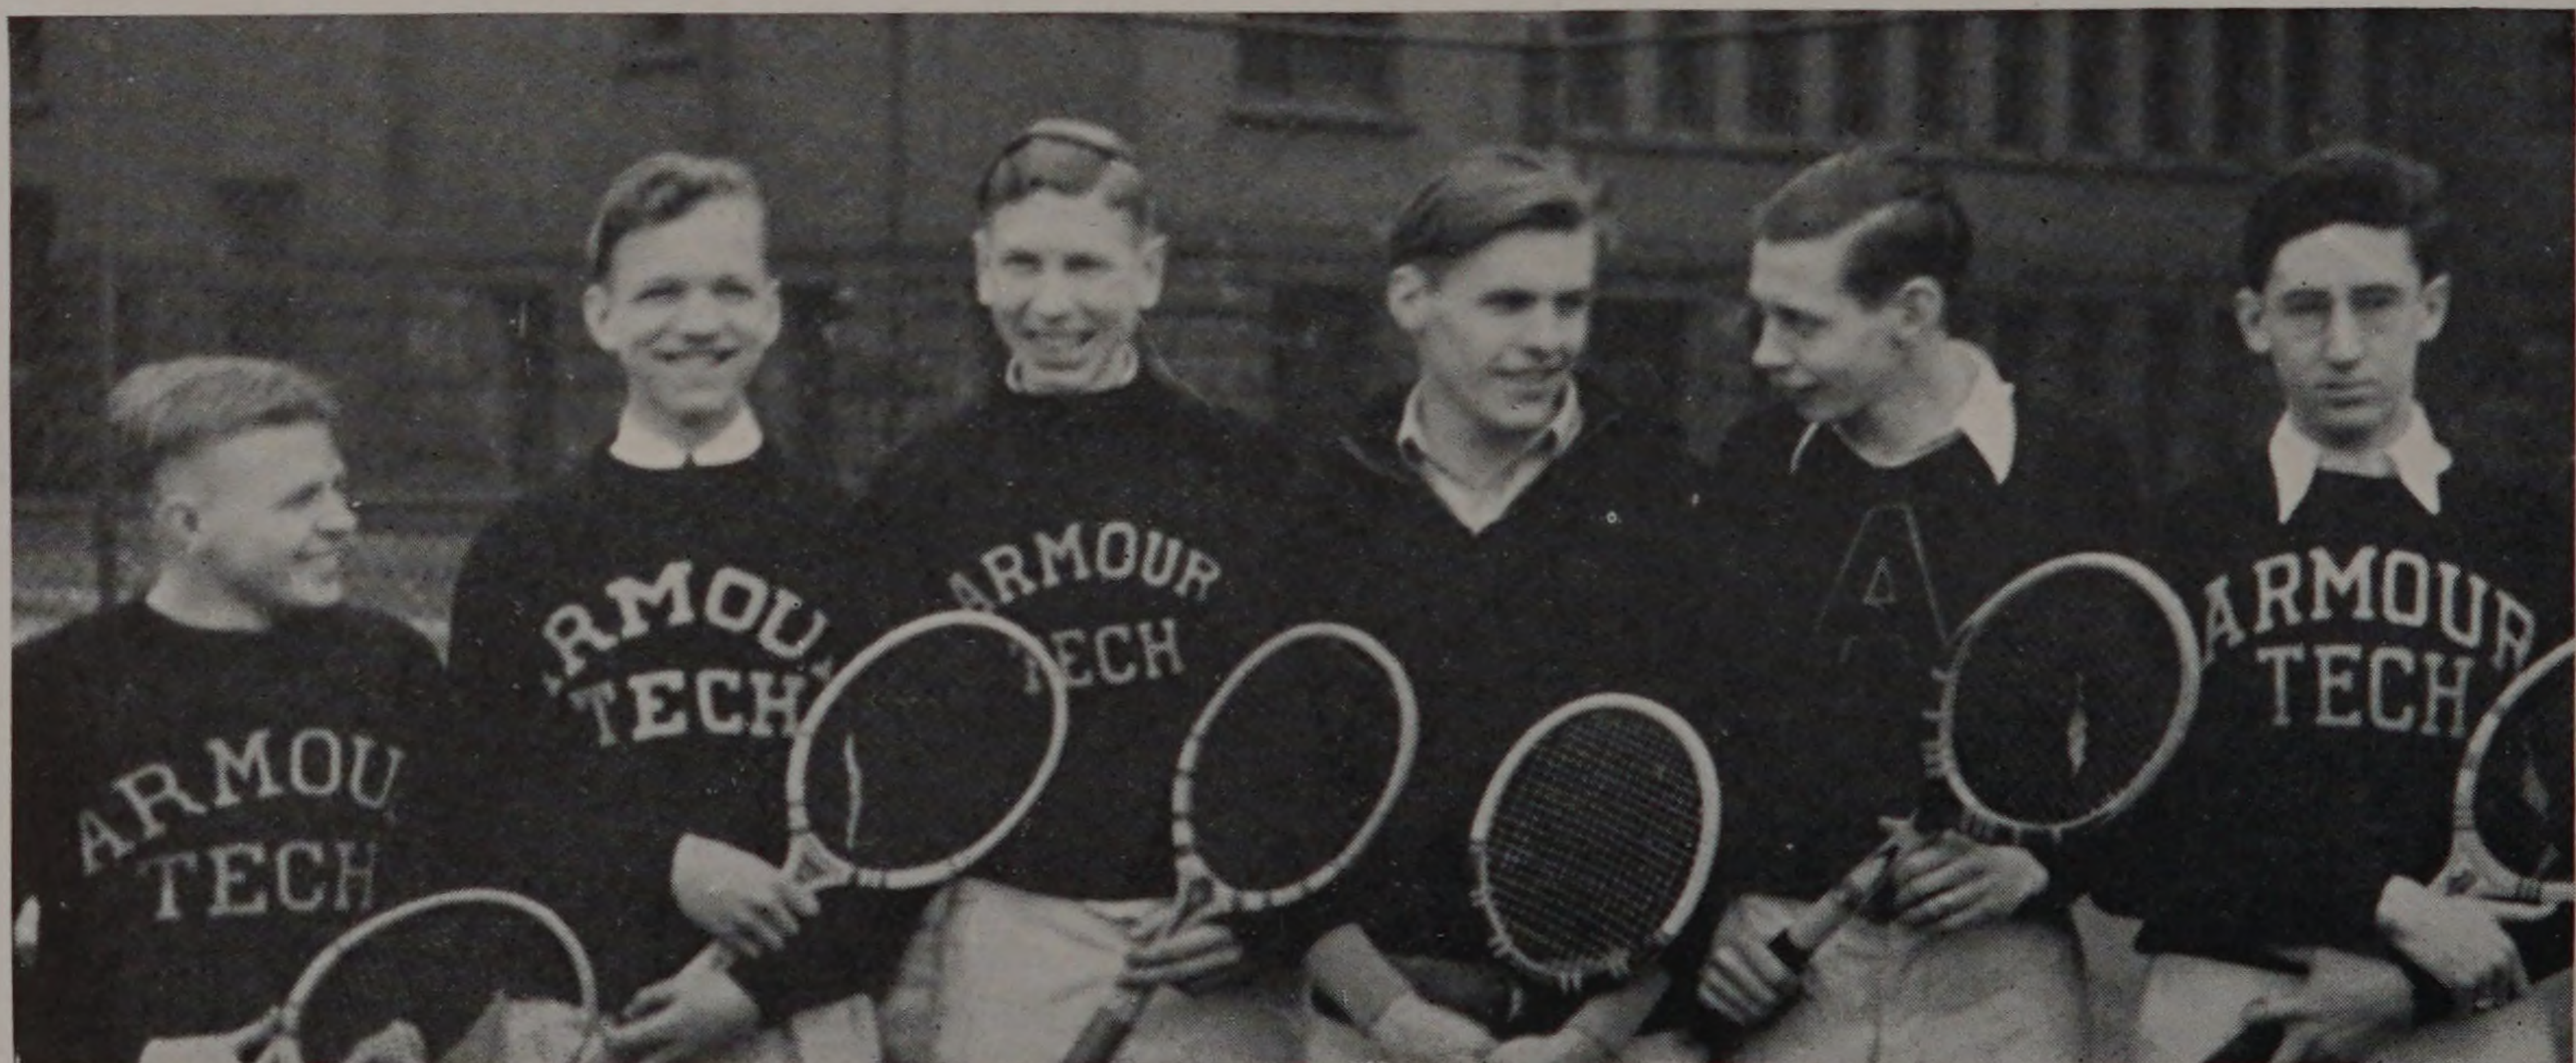

With the members of the successful squad of 1934 returning, assisted by several other experienced men, the tennis team faced the prospects of a very successful season. Initial practices were held indoors at the 108th Engineers' Armory, as they were the previous season. A tough schedule of ten meets, arranged by Manager Searl, was played, of which Armour won seven and lost three. In the two practice meets, Armour won one and lost one.

Due to inclement weather, the tennis team had but little outdoor practice before April 24, when they met North Central College and suffered a 4-3 loss.

On the next day, April 25, Armour had a practice meet with the University of Chicago, and was defeated, 8-3.

After an unsatisfactory beginning, the prospects of the season brightened considerably when Armour gained a 4-3 victory over Loyola University on April 29, a 5-2 victory over George Williams College on May 4, and a 4-3 win from De Pauw University on May 10. At the Loyola meet, held at Loyola, Armour captured three of the five singles events and split the two doubles events.

After defeating the De Pauw team at Greencastle, Armour's racket wielders journeyed to Terre Haute, where they suffered a 5-2 loss at the hands of Indiana State Teachers College on May 11. This was the first time that the Armour and Indiana State Teachers' teams were matched.
