SENIOR CLASS

downed the Sophomores 4 to 1 in its attempt to secure the interclass title. Following this victory the Class lost the basketball title. The team suffered a setback when it was defeated 9 to 7 by an invigorated and fighting squad of Seniors. The track team was more successful, however, and it won the interclass track title for the third consecutive year. Touchball was introduced during this year as an intramural sport. The Class entered six teams in the contest, and several succeeded in reaching the semi-finals. A team of Junior Mechanicals were entered in the final game, but it lost to a group of Senior Chemicals. Although the Class' basketball squad lost during its Senior year of competition, a new Armour record was set when the Class succeeded in winning the interclass track tourney for the fourth consecutive year. This victory pleased the entire class because competing teams of underclassmen were highly rated and seemed almost assured of victory. Athletic endeavor ended in Junior Week when several Senior teams reached the semi-finals in the annual baseball competition. Although this ended the competition of the Class of '38, it only gave impetus to the memories that were to surround the athletic accomplishments of this Class.

Socially the Class of '38 has always been outstanding. During the Freshman year class officers succeeded in reaching a truce with the rivaling class of Sophomores. A joint social committee was appointed that represented the two classes. This committee presented the "Engineers' Hop." The dance, held in the beautiful Bal Tabarin of the Sherman House, proved to be the first of a number of successful "'38" dances. Eddie Woodward's melodious orchestra was obtained to serve at the Class' first Sophomore dance. At this time the "Sophomore Cotillion" was given in the spacious and exclusive surroundings of the Lake Shore Athletic Club. Early in the spring of this same year the Class toasted the graduating Seniors by offering the "Sophomore Farewell" at Old Hall on the south side of Chicago. The Junior year was equally entertaining. The Junior Formal was held in the Grand Ballroom of the Drake Hotel during the winter season. This broke tradition and gave the Class an opportunity to hold an informal dance during Junior Week. This gathering was held at the beautiful Medinah Country Club featuring the music of Keith Beecher. The Class' senior social committee announced its first dance as the "Senior Swing" holding it in the spacious Cedar Room of the Oriental Building on the eve of the Christmas holiday. A closed Senior dance at which the members of the Class enjoyed the exclusive comradeship of one another concluded the Class of '38's social program at Armour.

Successful in all that has been accomplished, it is only reasonable to assume that the Class of '38 will continue its ascendant course. However, the Class will now proceed without a guiding hand. It will have to rely wholly upon the judgment and the skill of its components. They have received the proper training. Their interpretation and application of this instruction is wholly dependent upon the perception and rationality of each of the graduates. In these men lie the aspirations of the Class. It is they upon whom the class is dependent.

Senior Class Committees: Jewelry—Idris Thomas, Chairman, Robert E. Maxant, Bernard W. Gamson, George A. Palka, Lorentz A. Johanson, Leo J. Wiltrakis; Graduation—Albert N. Schrieber, Chairman, Raymond A. Kliphardt, Eugene J. Hanson, Richard F. Beardsley, William R. Marshall, William J. Laise; Announcement—Henry J. Bodnar, Chairman, Steven Gryglas, Howard G. Downing, Robert T. Duffy, Tom Cunningham, Stanley J. Johnson; Photography—Louis Lange, Jr., Chairman, Irving Gebel, Harold B. Nicholas, Frank A. Palonis, Edwin J. Skeppstrom, William E. Velvel; Cap and Gown—William J. Chelgren, Chairman, Carmen L. Basile, George M. Ives, Walter J. Litwin, John F. McIntyre, Stanley M. Osri; Senior Speakers—Evan L. Stoll, Chairman, John W. Anderson, Frank Hanneman.

Senior Chemicals Have a Hard Day in Mech Lab

