The Field Being Prepared for the Soph-Frosh Rush

Harried and overworked students discarded books and slide rules once more as the thirty-second annual Junior Week rolled into view. Activities planned to please everyone, provided a means of escape for pent-up energy as well as relief for the usual cases of spring fever. Athletics, drama, music, fun and dancing all had their place in the program for this much looked forward to week.

Monday's events were to be opened with a hobo parade and "Beaver" contest, but seemingly potential bums were too busy preparing for Open House to appear, and the event was called off. Open House events were scheduled at 3:00 P. M. instead of the usual hour of 7:00 P. M. so as to relieve congested halls and rooms of a part of the evening rush.

As is customary, Armourites and their friends danced in the gym at the end of the Open House exhibits and in spite of crowded conditions, the wolves were at work.

Tuesday saw the beginning of real activity with the opening of the interclass baseball tournament. This contest was followed by the interfraternity and inter-class relays, which were taken by the Phi Pi Phi's and Sophs, respectively.

A hotly contested baseball game followed, in which Delta Tau Delta and Rho Delta Rho fought for the interfraternity baseball championship, which was cinched by the Delts by the score of 19-8.

The long awaited Faculty-Senior baseball game was scheduled for 1 o'clock, but only half the faculty team appeared at the appointed time. A hurried check-up by the junior marshalls divulged the fact that a mass kidnaping had been carried out by the Senior gang. After a good deal of persuasion the tied-up opposition was carried on the field strapped to benches. The seniors then proceeded to perform the daring feat of imposing the first loss in thirty years upon a faculty team. An attempt was made to make the game a more serious affair than usual since the faculty really believed that they could put a superior team on the field. Events of the day

Sophomores Defend Their Goal

The Sophs in a Victorious Snake Dance