

CO-OP DANCE

The Co-op Dance Committee with their dates at the Co-op Spring Informal.

It was only fitting that two months of hard work and concentrated study should be capped with such a gala occasion as the Co-op Spring Informal. Yes sir! with a week of tests under their belts and the "job" awaiting them the following Monday morning, the Co-ops really turned out en masse for their very own dance. This gem of the social season was held on the first of April at that congenial hostelry, the "Graemere Hotel".

Music was furnished by none other than Micky Prindl and the boys. Characterized by a smooth velvet rhythm, Micky gave the gracefully gliding couples all they could ask for and more. As ample proof of the enjoyment that was being had, the couples didn't begin to steal away early in the evening but stayed until the last number had been played. The ballroom itself was a beautiful job with its charming style and soft lighting. A fitting setting for this noteworthy occasion. Congratulations are extended to Chairman Anthony and to the group that so wholeheartedly backed him.

All of Armour hopes that the Co-ops will continue to plan dances of this sort, dances that bid to rival if not surpass the dances given by the regular classes. The Co-op Spring Informal has a good start to becoming a yearly traditional event with Armour students.
