

FOR 1939

A record has been set here at Armour during the school year of 1938-39. It has been a year filled with achievement and material development as far as students, faculty, and administration of Armour Institute are concerned. We have continued to carry out the established high principles of engineering education, but we have also tried to establish new student ideals and higher school standards. The new Student Union is the realization of innumerable dreams and plans born years before the final work was started. Completed this year, it is typical of the pro-
