

EVENING DIVISION

STUDENT OFFICERS OF THE "NIGHTHAWKS"

President Walter E. Koch
Secretary Martin F. Schneider
Treasurer Leo Faitelson

Attendance at the evening classes at the Institute last year was nearly double that of any previous year. Registration for the current semester, while below last year's, is still far in advance of any other year. This growth shows that the program of development of the Institute is not limited to any one activity.

But the increase also indicates a growing realization of the fact that, for the man who aspires to the responsibilities of leadership, education for this changing, competitive world really only commences with "commencement."

The Evening Division is steadily increasing the scope of its services to technical, industrial and architectural Chicago; witness the various extension courses and conferences successfully given in the past two years.

We are not forgetting the needs of our own graduates. Armour men can, in the Evening Division, further qualify themselves for the business and administrative phases of their work and for technical requirements unforeseen in college. Or they can go on to advanced study in the fields of their interests, under a distinguished faculty. We want our alumni to find at the Institute a continuing stimulus and aid to advancement, intellectual as well as material.

H. P. DUTTON,
Dean of the Evening Division.
