Capitalizing on 9 of their 11 free throws, Armour rallied to win 30-29. The Techawks made it two in a row when they outplayed Arkansas State for a well-deserved 37-34 victory. Swanson scored ten of his, pace-setting a total of fifteen points in this period. O'Connor then collaborated with Swanson in scoring twelve points in the final half to keep Armour well in front of its opponents. In the Lake Forest game the Armourites were not able to get any sustained attack under way and went down in defeat, 33-29. The Armour players scored most of their baskets the hard way, fighting hard for rebounds and scoring from under the basket. The final gun cut short a late desperate rally which brought Armour within four points of a tie. All the offensive power the quintet potentially possessed suddenly and unexpectedly came into being when the team met and beat the strong Northern Illinois State Teachers of DeKalb. Playing an inspired game with the emphasis on team work, the Techawks triumphed, 36-31. Chicago U proved to be much too much for the team, as attested by the lopsided score of 48 to 11 for the men from the mid-way. Nothing seemed could be done against their air-tight zone defense.
