The Armour Tech Student Association is the administrative body of the undergraduate college. Composed of two men from each of the upper classes, a single representative for each of the under classes, and five faculty members, it is in charge of the allocation of all student funds. Its principal responsibility is the operation of all athletic activities. Sweater awards, and intramural honors are within its jurisdiction. The CYCLE and the Armour Tech News receive their funds from it, as well as the Musical Clubs and a number of other student organizations.

Instituted several years ago, the annual Fathers and Sons banquet, sponsored by this organization, has been a highly successful means for bringing together at the Institute the student and the principal behind him. Here dads meet the faculty as well as each other. With the broadening of campus activities each year, the need for student expression and faculty cooperation has grown to where this group exercises a most important function in Institute affairs.
