Facing one of the toughest schedules in recent years, Armour's cagers did not fare too well this season. Beset with injuries and a lack of good reserves, the best Stenger's five could do was to win but two of the fourteen games on the '39-'40 docket. Captain Bill Scherer, although handicapped for the majority of the games with an injured shoulder, played inspired ball throughout the season and led the team in scoring, by amassing 112 points. Close behind Scherer was Lloyd Norkus whose 110 points needed but one basket to tie for top honors.
