

At DeKalb the Techawks went down 46-25. In the return game with Lake Forest in the Armory, the local five jumped to a 22-20 first half lead, and then showed a complete reversal of form in their second half performance. Through the accurate shooting of Gates and Harrison, the Foresters ran up the score to 52-35. Poor proficiency in the free throw department cost the Techawks their game with Elmhurst as they went down in defeat 28-26. Against the Maroons the Techawks looked better than last year, but still found the Chicago defense too impervious and so garnered 23 points as compared to Chicago's 45.

Before Scherer's homefolk at Naperville and under the tutelage of O'Brien and Weissman, who were pinch hitting for the ill coach, Stenger, the Techawks played their best game of the year against North Central, although losing 48-40. After tasting double defeat at the hands of Grand Rapids and Lawrence Tech of Detroit on their 'tween semester jaunt, the Tech cagers broke their losing streak at eleven by handing George Williams a one point defeat. The game proved a 34-33 thriller, and served as a fitting prelude to the Chicago Bruins pro tilt. The Techawks made it two straight by whipping Elmhurst 53-49 in a free scoring contest at Elmhurst. Armour's valiant five hit a low ebb in performance as they bowed before a fast moving North Central five, 41-30, to ring down the curtain on the worst season in years.
