

John J. Schommer

The success of the 1940 Armour Tech Relays is largely attributable to the personality of the individual behind them, John Schommer. His is the responsibility of contacting the many participants and arranging for the innumerable details necessary for the staging of the games. The enthusiastic response of the colleges and universities throughout the middle west is indicative of the increasing popularity of this track season highlight. The keen spirit of competition displayed by teams and individuals in vying for cups and badges, symbols of achievement, is the spirit of the man who conceived and inspires the continuance of our own Tech Relays.
