

Alec Templeton, famed young English pianist, dropped in on Tech Thursday afternoon to try out the "Color Organ". The musical festivities were continued that evening when the annual Musical Club's Spring Concert was given in the auditorium, combined with the Interfraternity Sing. The huge throng was captivated by the excellent performance of the clubs, and by the various fraternities' renditions of their sacred friendship songs. The Phi Kappa Sigma house won the Sing. A dance completed the evening.

Friday saw the Phi Pi's again take the interfraternity track cup. The obstacle races and interclass marbles were ruled out because of lack of competitors. . . . Very strange for Techawks.
