

The interfraternity and interdepartment skits led off the afternoon activities, with Triangle winning the President's cup with their "Follies of 1939"; and the Junior Mechs topping all other departments with their unchallenged production "Hillbillies in Omskow", featuring Stoopbrain Bliss and his clan, and a group of "Russian" musicians.

Proving once again that experience conquers all, the Sophs upheld tradition, though somewhat suspiciously, when they "won" over the frosh in the Rush. "Mangled" bodies and "soiled" vegetables strewed the battleground afterwards.

A record crowd of over 300 couples filled the beautiful Itasca Country Club Friday evening at the Junior Informal to close the social season. Thus another Junior Week became history.
