Basic Rules

- 1. Each clue indicates a group of contiguous squares of like color.
- 2. Between each group there is at least one empty square.
- 3. The clues are already in the correct sequence.

Nothing can be done They will say You must never listen when Life's lies are apparent Hopelessness exists as normality Even when you're told That strength can be found and nurtured Remember the truth And believe that your mind is weak When you falter and have doubt Accept failure as the end Know that never should you See that happiness can be found If you change your perspective

Now read the poem from bottom to top.
