Global Warming Research and Community Outreach

What is the Problem?

There is a lot of information available concerning the major topic of Global Warming.

The plethora of information and differences in points of views and opinions has caused a confusion in the general public.

As a result of this unreliable information many people do not know what to believe, and credibility on the topic is low.

We intend to educate the public free of economical, political or any other biases. We want to educate through pure scientific facts.

Goals of Project

Incorporate previous presentation feedback into new methods

- This primarily includes subdividing the issue into four major aspects that contribute to addressing the scientific aspect of global warming

Present material to a larger and more diverse audiences

- Including schools, community centers, libraries, non-profit organizations, and other possibilities

Focus on solid, scientific data from credible sources

- Sources that define why and how global warming is occurring, rather than discussing the politics and economics that surround the issue.

Progress Made

1
- Incorporated previous presentations into new methods
- Created 4 subgroups each covering a specific aspect

2
- Nearly completed 4 separate PowerPoint presentations and scripts

3
- Biofuel team made a presentation at the Chicago Rotary Club
- We have assessed the feedback made in order to improve our future presentations

Major Obstacles

Presentation

Create more effective and concise presentation

Reliable Sources

Addressing the large amount of scientific areas of research focusing on Global Warming

Audience

Broaden the team's audiences from high schools to other groups in the Chicago-land area

What Lies Ahead?

PowerPoint Presentation

Continue to ensure credible information	Practice giving presentation
