A man with glasses and a light-colored shirt with a tie is seen from the side, working on a model inside a glass display case. The model appears to be a bridge or a similar structure. The display case is supported by two thick, polished metal pillars. A white sign with the number 212 is attached to the front of the case. In the background, another person is partially visible, and a red garment hangs on the right. The scene is dimly lit, with a spotlight on the man and his work.

A person wearing a green long-sleeved shirt is inside a glass display case. They are looking upwards and to the left. A white sign with the number '216' in black is attached to the front of the case. The case is supported by two vertical wooden poles. Inside the case, there are some thin, light-colored objects, possibly reeds or sticks, and a small, dark, curved object hanging from the top. The background is dark.

A man with short brown hair, wearing a blue hoodie, is looking down at a mechanical device inside a transparent box. The device consists of a horizontal metal bar with a vertical rod passing through its center. A thin, light-colored rod is attached to the bottom of the vertical rod. The box is mounted on a stand with two vertical yellow pillars. To the right of the box, a white sign with the number '218' is attached. The background is a red curtain.

A photograph of a man and a woman inside a glass-enclosed booth, possibly a voting station or a public display. The man, on the left, is balding with glasses and is wearing a light-colored shirt. The woman, on the right, has long dark hair and is wearing a pink top. They are both looking down at something on a table inside the booth. The booth is supported by two thick, gold-colored pillars. A white sign with the number '232' in black is attached to the front of the booth. The background is dark, and there is some light reflecting off the glass surfaces.
